Prestige Medical introduces new instrument trays with enhanced sharps protection

Prestige Medical claim that the new trays will allow instruments to be transferred seamlessly from the dental chair, through the cleaning and sterilization process. The special design of the new trays gives enhanced protection to staff against sharps injuries and gives additional support to the instruments, at the same time helping to protect sterilization pouches from being punctured during the decontamination process.

The trays are made in high quality, 304 grade stainless steel and feature silicone moulded rests and retaining clips. They are available in three sizes: 3 instrument tray in sets of two, 5 instrument tray in sets of three and 10 instrument tray in sets of two or twelve.
